Summary

My primary attention is to help my customers improve business processes, increase profit, sales and client base using modern web-technologies. I work with projects on all steps - architecture design, development, testing, maintenance and bug fixing. My main skill is backend development on custom projects (without CMS/Frameworks), framework-based projects and even hardcoded projects or legacy code support. Also I can help with some front-end tasks.

Focus on long-term trust-based relationships that produced qualitative result is very important for me because in this case customers don't have to worry about technologies and development process but they can concentrate on business.
